

Number Flowers

This a fun game to support children in developing number recognition.

For this activity you will need:

Chalks

Watering can

Outdoor space

First use some chalk to draw some flowers on the pavement outdoors. You could spread them out or hide some of them to make it a little more challenging. Inside each flower write a number from one to ten.

Fill the watering can up and give it to your child. As you shout a number out your child has to find the correct number flower and water it.

You could also try this activity with other things such as shapes or letters or if your child is confident with numbers from one to ten you could even use larger numbers to give them a challenge.
