

Create your own nest!

Go out into the garden or explore nature nearby and look out for some of the things that the birds had in their nest, such as twigs and feathers. If you haven't found anything on your daily exercise, you could create your own using paper, drawing foliage and leaves. Together, you can then assemble the nest for the baby owls to live in—fantastic! If you don't have any paper to hand to create leaves, twigs or owl feathers, you could still create an 'owl house', using sheets as a den!

Looking for creatures!

When you go out for a walk, you could look out to see what you could find? You don't need to look too hard and you can find lots of different creatures, from seagulls and pigeons, to creatures that live under the ground, such as worms! You could find out what colours they are, whether you think they are big or small and what they like to eat too, seeing as the owls like "mice and things that are nice".

Hide and seek...

Do you think Mummy Owl was playing 'Hide and Seek'? You could play hide and seek while in your home, or out in the garden. You could change the number that you could count to as well as describing the object you have hidden behind, before it is your turn to 'seek'!
